Acknowledgements and Readers' Notes

One man's – or woman's – justice is another's injustice. Whatever one's opinion it is vital that we retain and enjoy a press free to challenge and provoke opposing views. For that is the basis of democracy and I am grateful to the national daily papers.

My thanks to Maureen, who has once again typed this book on our Apple computer, an Apple I feel more Bramley and English than an American Macintosh.

The entire contents of this book was handwritten, similar in rustic charm to “hand-battered cod”, “hand-cut chips” and hand-finished pastry”.

At Trouser Press we pride ourselves on our green credentials. The paper used for the printing of this book all came from trees that were old anyway and probably from a foreign country – or Yorkshire as some people call it.

The completed work shows no sign of being genetically modified and appears to be lactose tolerant, gluten free, tallow free, non-nut allergic, coeliac resistant and “ism” free. You know, all those special needs we never knew we didn't suffer from during the fifties and sixties ... happy days ... Enjoy!
